A special part of PHS, the jungle hall was used daily as a route to classes and as a meeting place to talk with friends.

Taking time out from his duties, one of the hall monitors supports himself in the doorway facing into senior hall.

Faces in the crowd, these students are typical of the many who attended the numerous and varied sports events at Portage.

In his authentic Indian costume senior Joe Hilliard, drum major for the marching band, symbolizes the names of PHS teams.

Every day a Search for Success

Getting up at 6:30, rushing off to catch the bus at 7, greeting friends at school, exchanging gossip, running off to class, hoping to not be late,
being surprised by a pop quiz, wishing you had read the chapter, gladly sitting down to lunch,
not wanting to go back to class,
getting your locker stuck, kicking and pounding to get it open,
being asked to the prom,
hurrying, knowing you'd better not miss the bus,
staying at school for a club meeting,
or for football practice;
are all day-to-day occurrences—school life at PHS.

As Cathy Gabbert has found, the telephones by the office and bookstore are very helpful when one needs a ride home after school.

To give their locker their own personal decorative touches, two seniors spend a few minutes after school putting up wallpaper.

Change in fashion trends at PHS was marked by the appearance of wigs and maxi-skirts like those of Susan Tetrick and Anita Ostroot.

Besides being merely 30 minutes for swallowing a meal, lunch hour is also a period for relaxing and conversing with friends.

Though school consists of much more than just doing homework and going to class, a student's academic courses are still the most important part of his school life.

Within their busy schedules of school and extra-curricular activities, students still found time to spend with one another at football games and other evening school functions.

On April 22, National Earth Day, many PHS students found the time to participate by cleaning up the school grounds and walking or riding the bus to school instead of driving. Stickers made by the art department also spurred interest in the country-wide clean-up campaign.

Numerous projects created by art students were displayed in the art show on May 22 and 23. The public was invited to attend.

Under the direction of Mr. Sensenbaugh the concert band played for a special Jaycee function in the Portage Mall despite the weather.

Interested in radios and radio broadcasting, junior Gene Brown plans to open a station in his own community of South Haven.

Conscious of the needs of others at Christmas, members of Mr. Dennis Norman's speech class organized a club to give a helping hand.

Although only a mock election, senior Mitch Delmage exercised his right to vote during the social studies sponsored spring primary.

Twenty-six juniors and seniors shared two days of their lives with 160 sixth graders in a camping experience at Camp Goodfellow. Tom Winn, senior, assists two campers with soap carving.

After helping other News Bureau members clean the jungle, Debi Devyak and Pat O'Guin display some of the refuse.

The PHS Choraliers often sang at community functions. Here they entertain a women's club at the Holiday Inn.

Activities

A rather "special" senior year was in store for Susan Tetrick as she received the coveted title of 1969 homecoming queen. Susan, elected by the students of PHS, succeeded Vickie Melton.

The honor and recognition of being selected as members of the traditional homecoming court belonged to seniors Karen Cowles, Susan Kirk, Dawn Ponsler, and Barbara Trumble.

PHS homecoming spirit sparked by posters, program, and parade

Spontaneous bursts of cheering, elaborate costumes, and wild posters were all distinctive parts of the four friendly but competitive spirit days of homecoming week.

On Friday, the special all-school convocation-pep session featured a skit by the senior girls and the election of Pete "Share-it-all" Shaw as the homely homecoming queen. In addition to this, students also voted for the real homecoming queen and saw the title of "Mr. Football" presented to senior Roger Owens.

A longer parade route and a police escort were two new features of the annual homecoming parade. Starting after school in the parking lot, floats and cars decorated by the students traveled through the streets of Portage in hopes of stirring up the public's spirit.

Half-time ceremonies of the Chesterton-Portage game included a program by the marching band, the announcement of the winning floats, and the crowning of Susan Tetric as the 1969 homecoming queen.

Climaxing the events was the Saturday night homecoming dance, "Autumn Leaves", where couples danced to the music of the band "Stop."

Performing one of their numbers before 100 couples was "Stop", the featured band at the homecoming dance, "Autumn Leaves."

Authentic headdresses adorn the heads of the Portage Indians' "chiefs", coaches Robert Smith, James Douglas, and Robert Kerns.

For junior spirit day festivities, John Patterson portrays a Chesterton Trojan bruised and battered after playing the Indians.

"Oedipus Rex", "Antigone" are Portage's first Greek tragedies

Though Greek plays are rarely performed by high school drama groups, the Portage drama department tried its hand at two Greek tragedies, "Oedipus Rex" and "Antigone" as its second production of the year.

Performed in the Crisman Elementary School gym in three-quarters round, the plays centered around the tragedies encountered by Oedipus and his family. Mr. Dennis Norman directed this second dramatic production.

The first play of the school year in November, Noel Coward's comedy, "Blithe Spirit" was directed by Mr. Neil Lane.

The main conflict in "Blithe Spirit" occurred when Madame Arcate a wacky, neighborhood medium, called back the spirit of Charles Condomine's first wife, Elvira, during a seance in the Condomine home.

Awaiting Madame Arcate's arrival, Charles and Ruth Condomine, (senior Randy Olson and junior Pam Riley), entertain their guest, Mrs. Bradman, (senior Cindi Crestani).

Preparing herself to go into a hypnotic trance for the seance to follow, Madame Arcate, portrayed by senior Debi Devynk, begins to make eerie moaning and howling sounds.

With several of the Theban elders looking on, a messenger, (junior Tom Vondrasek), describes how he saw Oedipus blind himself by plunging his wife's jeweled brooches into his eyes.

Consoling his daughters, Antigone and Ismene, (Sue Christakis and Belle Tribby), Oedipus, (Rusty Royal), ponders his future.

The task of making Greek masks for Robin Hood and other cast members fell to senior Lori Vignany, make-up committee member.

Charles tearfully contemplates the thought of having two wives, (Pam Riley and Suzi Bollen), during a "Blüthe Spirit" rehearsal.

"Winnifred the Woebegone" lead role in musical

Based upon the fairy tale, "The Princess and the Pea," "Once Upon a Mattress" starred senior Diann Lindquist as Princess Winnifred, otherwise known as "Fred", the princess who slept on a bed of 20 mattresses and still felt a small pea which had been placed at the bottom.

Debi Devyak, senior, portrayed Queen Aggravain, the scheming mother of the prince who thought up near-impossible tests that a princess had to pass before she could marry Prince Dauntless.

Dauntless (senior Jay Scovill) is a "mama's boy" at the beginning of the show, but later goes against his mother's wishes by deciding to marry Fred.

Randy Olson, the mute King Sextimus, does not speak until the end of the play when he finally regains his voice just as the queen loses hers.

Directed by Mr. Dennis Norman, "Once Upon a Mattress" was performed on two consecutive weekends, May 1, 2, 8, and 9.

As mute King Sextimus (senior Randy Olson) pretends to be a bee while explaining the facts of life to his son, Dauntless (senior Jay Scovill) tries to figure out what he's saying.

"Yesterday I loved you, but today I love you even more," sings Sir Harry (senior Tom Funky) to Lady Larken (junior Sherry Albaugh).

Queen Aggravain smiles up at her "darling baby boy". Dauntless, as she tries to convince him that she wants him to get married.

Assisted by the wizard, Queen Aggravain tries to think up a question hard enough to make Princess #12 fail the test.

With a look of determination, Princess Winnifred the Woebegone (senior Diann Lindquist) gets ready to tackle the bed of mattresses in an effort to make it soft enough to sleep upon.

Convocations, dances provide entertainment

Opening and closing to selections from "Hair", the variety show was a diversified and enjoyable blend of student talents.

The "Young and Free", a singing group, helped Santa spread cheer at the Yuletide convocation.

Also during the year, students had the privilege of hearing high school bands from Danville, Indiana, and Mendota, Illinois.

In spring, a young girl's fancy turns to thoughts of young men; so to give love a little push, PVC held the Sadie Hawkins Dance in April.

The various dances throughout the year, highlighted by the Christmas and Homecoming festivities, gave Portage's potential Fred Astaires many chances to demonstrate their fancy footwork.

1969 Mardi Gras Queen, Karen Coules, crowns the new queen, Karen Krohn, as Mardi Gras King, Allen England, smiles from behind.

"Hug him in the mornin', kiss him every night, give him plenty of lovin', and treat him right!" sing the char women, Gail Mahns, Diann Lindquist, Linda Piscioti, and Ruth Aydelotte.

Giant heads with small bodies were the costumes which made the Variety Show act of Laura Elliott and Dara Kokotovich, seniors, a success. The costumes were made partly from old sheets.

*reversed J. Laura, am on the right - p19
This was my 'original' costume!*

Making his annual appearance at the Christmas convocation, "Santa Claus" Cantwell checks over his list to see who has been good enough to receive a present while his two helpers deliver all the gifts.

Laden with cookies, brownies, and punch, the refreshment table was a haven for the many hungry students who attended the Christmas Dance. Casual dress was permitted at the dance.

Placed strategically in the center of the floor, the fountain symbolizing Aquarius, the water sign, proved to be a conversation piece.

Amidst the astrological decorations, senior Mike Cisel and his date junior Ivy Armitage dance to the music of Sav Amatulli and his orchestra.

Pausing for some refreshments, junior Cindy Tesanovich and escort Alan Johnson take time out to join other couples in the cafeteria.

Overlooked by the twins signifying the sign of Gemini, Steve Swanson, Jackie Tarkane, Dan Thorn, and Pam Davis rest for a moment.

Signs of the zodiac express prom theme, "Dawning of Aquarius"

Psychedelic posters of the signs of the zodiac, masses of colorful flowers, a fountain, and a kaleidoscope all emphasized by different kinds of light, set the scene for the 1970 prom, "The Dawning of Aquarius", held on May 16 in the high school gymnasium.

Couples attending the annual junior-senior affair danced to the music provided by Sav Amatulli and his orchestra from 8 until 12.

The after-prom entertainment taking place at Wellman's Bridge Vu Theatre in Valparaiso from 1 to 5 included a hypnotist, music by the Ivory Tower, and a buffet style dinner.

Many exhausted but happy couples headed to parks and beaches the day after the prom to participate in picnics and parties.

For the grand march Steve Eader and date Linda Bennington parade down a star-studded pathway. Parents and friends wishing to view the grand march were permitted to use the balcony.

Last day of May proves to be memorable event for

The last day of May proved to be a memorable occasion for the 374 seniors graduating from PHS as they marched into the gym for the last time as high school students.

Following the prelude by the orchestra, the processional of the senior class, and the invocation by the choir, the Reverend Dean V. Stuckey began the combined baccalaureate-commencement exercises by delivering his baccalaureate address.

Valedictorian Leslie Clough and salutatorian David Glova then delivered the traditional speeches.

Surrounded by "fellow" graduates, Leslie Armitage expresses her feelings about the upcoming ceremonies. Having mixed emotions about graduation was a common occurrence for many seniors.

The 374 white envelopes containing diplomas lie ready to be delivered into the hands of the anxious senior recipients.

Receiving a congratulatory handshake from Dr. Ralph Kelly, Bobbie Martin accepts the diploma symbolizing her achievements and also marking the end of her days as a high school student.

class of 1970

Dressed in robes of white and red, partners Judy Dailey and Jim Turpin anxiously await the coming event. Because of the length of the line graduates began the processional out of doors.

Filled to capacity, the gym housed not only the 374 graduates but was also filled with mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, grandmothers, grandfathers, aunts, uncles, cousins

Dan Finucane and his partner Karen Dumas are among the first to enter the gym. All of the girls carried the traditional red roses.

Academics

Junior Gus Flassig plans improvements for his project, "Vibratory Gyros," that won first place in the Valparaiso regional science fair.

In a beginning lab experiment, biology student Kris Hooten, freshman, adds a few drops of tap water to the Petri dish solution of agar.

Included in his duties as a laboratory assistant, junior Brian Chelf feeds and cares for a guinea pig in the vivarium.

Student wins at regional fair; attends Maryland international

For the first time in three years, PHS was represented at the international science fair. Junior Gus Flassig's project placed first in the applied physics category in the regionals and went on to compete in the international fair in Baltimore.

In the Science Projects Seminar course a wind tunnel was constructed by senior Jay Scovill. The tunnel is to be used to illustrate air flow to physics classes.

Since next year the entire science curriculum is to be re-evaluated and examined, few changes were made in the department according to Mr. Jack Cantwell, department head. However, the vivarium, class demonstrations, and laboratory experiments played a special role in classes.

In learning the mechanics of the microscope, the mysterious worlds of paramecium, amoeba and bacteria are revealed to junior botany and zoology student, Bob Curry.

Recording the results of their experiment involving a pendulum in motion, juniors Pam Kay and Joyce Shoub closely watch the movements of the pendulum for their physical science class.

Trips to the library were made by juniors Mary Shaw and Martin Soukup in order to complete assignments for U. S. history.

In a hypnotic demonstration, an entranced John Greich, junior, holds himself rigid while Mr. Frank Peterson, hypnotist, and other psychology students lift him.

Among the top scorers on the Time Current Affairs Test, freshman Terry Holmer, junior Tim Knutsen, and freshman Craig Smith look over a copy of the test with Mr. Ronald Buls.

As extra credit for a required economics course, seniors Denise Welch and Mark Yavor sample different brands of colas before preparing a consumer report.

World geography classes visit Midwest Steel Co.

Psychology students smoking chalk, singing "Rock-a-bye Baby", and making animal noises were witnessed when Mr. Frank Peterson, a hypnotist, visited PHS. Mr. Peterson demonstrated his method of producing a trance and using post-hypnotic suggestion.

In the spring, sociology and psychology classes visited Beatty Memorial Hospital. Earlier, psychology pupils had visited Vale Day School. An April tour of Midwest Steel was made by world geography classes, tying in with a study of raw material in industry.

New textbooks were acquired for history, geography, economics, and government.

Seniors in government studied forms of government while economics students discovered the role of the consumer and the producer in economy.

Thirteen qualified seniors who enrolled in independent study in place of economics, wrote extensive papers on particular areas of social studies.

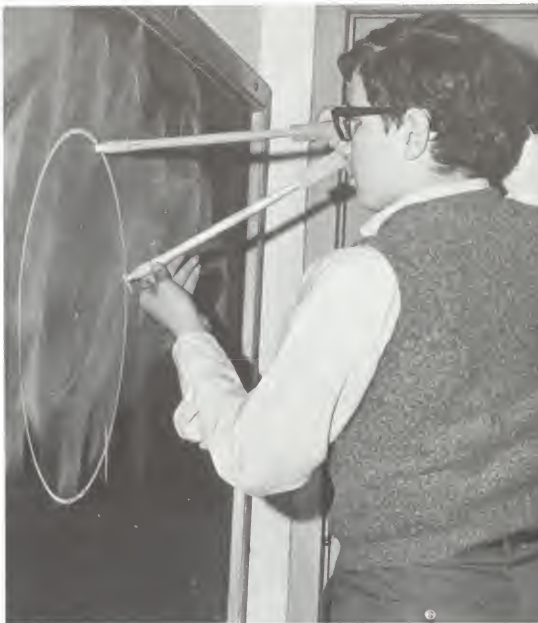

INDEPENDENT STUDY—Standing: Mr. Dennis Bond, adviser, V. Pantea, J. Scovill, R. Olson, R. Harris. Sitting: D. Lindquist, F. O'Guin, C. Wilder, D. Desyak, C. Crestani, L. Clough, S. Tetric.

Math department offers varied courses; chooses

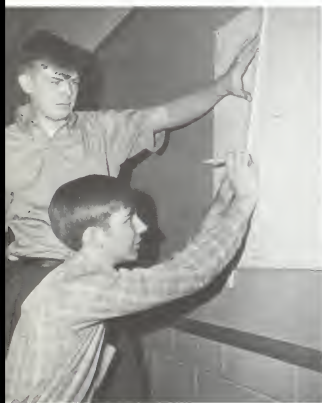

This year, in addition to purchasing new textbooks to be used next year, math teachers coached the two advanced math and three geometry students who represented PHS at the state invitational math contest.

General mathematics and algebra offered the fundamentals necessary in the more advanced courses. Geometry gave PHS students a math minor. College bound pupils could be found in the advanced courses such as advanced algebra, advanced mathematics and calculus.

Specialized classes taken by students wishing more math included solid and non-euclidian geometry and trigonometry for the math minor.

While geometry teacher Mr. Kellstrom stands by and gives instructions, Terry Holmer, freshman, proceeds with the steps necessary to inscribe a hexagon within a circle.

Probability and statistics students, seniors Bob Horton and Rick Tanner, place the heights and weights of PHSers onto a graph.

A chart reveals the origin of the mathematical symbol "pi" to senior John Reed and junior Dan Riley in advanced mathematics.

new textbooks

Composed of just two members, seniors Steve Lovell and Richard Harris, the only advanced calculus class discusses the daily assignment with the instructor, Mr. Mull.

The use of a geometer enables junior Joe Reynolds to draw diagrams rapidly and accurately, thus being able to more easily find solutions to advanced algebra problems.

After fully examining the bits and pieces of a geometric figure, freshman Tom Marty discovers it illustrates the class' current area of study, the cube of a binomial.

Proper hand positioning is an important factor to beginning typist, junior Vickie Holle, as she attempts to master the keyboard.

A rotary calculator operated in office machines by senior Donna Melton eliminates the strain of figuring out percents and other mathematical computations arising from difficult problems.

Distributive Education program participant, senior Chuck Myers, changes the announcement of services, one of his regular duties at Olson, Reiser, and Frum Funeral Home in Portage.

Seniors enroll in DE course; work half-days

After days of preliminary, sometimes tedious job hunting, over forty seniors were able to participate in the Distributive Education program. After attending classes during morning hours, students went as far as Michigan City for the opportunity to apply skills learned in the classroom to an actual job experience.

For students not interested in this program, a wide range of other business classes were offered to serve the needs of the employment market and the needs of the student body. In courses such as typing, bookkeeping, and shorthand, skill, speed, and accuracy were of vital importance in learning fundamental business procedures.

Unfortunately, due to the school's financial crisis, it was necessary to drop two advanced courses from the business curriculum.

As business teacher Mrs. Dolezal dictates a letter, senior Karla Clark, advanced shorthand student, using an overhead projector, displays speed and accuracy to a beginning shorthand class. The demonstration showed how pupils could benefit through effort and practice.

After learning proper care of a manual typewriter in advanced typing, senior Nancy Jackson gives her machine a thorough cleaning.

Bookkeeping student, junior Debbie Demo, records business transactions and prepares financial statements while completing a practice set.

Using the hallway as her work area for humanities class, senior Patti O'Guin constructs a timeline on the Renaissance.

English department emphasizes new reading improvement skills

Through the use of two newly purchased reading machines, the Shadowscope and the Tachomatic, English pupils were aided in increasing their reading speed. The Tachomatic, a reading trainer, taught the eye to move quickly while the Shadowscope, a reading pacer, trained the person to read at a steady pace.

The importance of reading was also shown through the reading of a new book in world literature classes, Nectar in the Sieve. On other grade levels, students were able to make use of class sets of the current issues of Reader's Digest magazines.

In composition classes, the usual tasks of writing themes and learning correct grammar usage were undertaken. The study of drama, poetry, non-fiction, and fiction was part of the curriculum in literature classes. Paperback books were used extensively to supplement the texts.

Writing commercials is used as an assignment in a junior composition class to teach the techniques of persuasion. Robin Nelson demonstrates these freshly acquired techniques in hopes of selling his newly invented LOST cereal to his hungry fourth hour classmates.

Making his final selections at the English department's biannual paperback book sale, frosh Terry Burklow chooses books contributed by both the faculty and the student body.

Honor student lives in native German home

A summer in Germany was experienced by Kathy Duda as a result of being chosen as a finalist in Indiana University's Honors Program. Eight weeks was spent living with a native family, increasing and perfecting her German and becoming acquainted with German culture.

Nearly 40% of the student body was enrolled in a foreign language class. In beginning classes, students studied basic sounds and grammar points by memorizing short dialogues. Advanced students were able to delve deeply into the study of the countries' cultures and to concentrate more on conversational speaking.

Among the activities undertaken by languages students were a trip to Germantown and a trip to Purdue University to see a French play.

Besides usual language drills, Spanish students also study the culture of the country by viewing a video-tape of a popular sport, bullfighting.

A bulletin board display of Spanish art pieces is prepared by sophomore assistant Bruce Warren to brighten up the language lab.

Speech classes form clubs, conduct service projects

Food baskets for the needy, packages to Viet Nam, and a Christmas party for the children at Lake County Children's Home were projects undertaken by clubs formed while studying parliamentary procedure in speech.

Informative, persuasive, and demonstration speeches were a few types of talks given by speech students. Clear reasoning and the supporting of opinions were taught through debate.

Acting classes learned the fundamentals of pantomime, dance, voice interpretation, and acting scenes. "Little Women," a three act play, was presented to elementary schools by the class. Studying the technical theater and theater history was the main objective of dramatics.

Nearly doubling enrollment in two years, the beginning journalism classes were taught new writing skills and how to respond to communications media in an intelligent manner. Besides panel discussions on libel and propaganda, students were encouraged to examine Vice-President Agnew's charges against news media. A trip to the Gary Post-Tribune gave journalists an opportunity to see how a metropolitan major press operates.

Advanced journalism students were responsible for editing the school's literary magazine, newspaper, and yearbook, and for writing stories for area papers about school activities.

Wheeler Nike Base serviceman Darrel Kearns explains to speech class why packages from home are so important to troops in Viet Nam.

A pirouette, a type of turn used in dancing, is demonstrated to sophomore Debbie Haines by Mr. Norman during acting class.

Preparing for distribution of underclass pictures are freshmen section editors of the Ledger, Carole Leimbacher and Linda Behnke.

Beginning journalists Patty Lock and Nancy Bain, sophomores, and Tony Fonce, junior, identify prominent personalities such as the Pope, the vice president of South Vietnam, and New York's governor. Expected to follow current events, students are quizzed periodically.

Trying not to blink, senior Greg Blake patiently waits for classmate Kathy Beckham to finish practicing make-up procedures in dramatics.

Art students paint store fronts, enter Gordon's drawing contest

From photographers shooting a picture series to painters conveying their feeling about their country through a red, white, and blue theme, art students again and again showed their creativity and imagination.

Besides class projects, future artists also participated in community activities. Gordon's sponsored a commercial fashion drawing contest with participants sketching a fashion model. During the Halloween season, interested art students entered a window painting contest in the Mall, creating numerous ghosts and goblins and witches.

In May, the annual art exhibition was held. Each student was requested to display several of his art pieces.

Using her imagination, senior Mary Benson conveys her feelings onto canvas through techniques learned in advanced painting.

A wooden totem pole is constructed and painted by junior Tim Thomas to emphasize craft designing in a three dimensional project.

Step by step, junior Bill Sass, art student, shapes his clay alligator from the original hump mold stage during ceramics class.

Marching in the Valpo homecoming parade, performing at the Christmas convocation as well as at two concerts, and competing in the annual state contest gave Varsity Band members experience in participating in an instrumental group.

Songs such as "Cherish" and "Downtown" were played by the Pep Band at the home basketball games, supplying additional enthusiasm to spirited Indian supporters.

The Dance Band entertained at the annual Adam and Eve Dinner and were also requested to play for an area prom and a senior dance.

Drum major dons Indian war headdress

The Portage marching band had a new "look" this year as the drum major sported an Indian costume and gear.

Highlighting the season was their attendance at the Chicago State Street parade. The band was one of three out-of-state bands invited to march in the parade.

Both band and orchestra participated in March candy sales and sold concert and Adam and Eve Dinner tickets.

The orchestra made their annual visit to the area elementary schools while the concert band toured nearby high schools.

Solos and ensembles from both music groups competing at the NISBOVA contest won 108 firsts. Eighteen went on to the state contest.

Chorus classes sing pop music, practice on proper pronunciation

Simon and Garfunkel's "Sounds of Silence" and "Scarborough Fair" were among tunes sung in the four chorus classes. Singable vowels and singable consonants were strongly stressed, resulting in clear, distinct words.

From these classes was picked the hundred member choir. Besides participating in the choir festival at Griffith and the state contest, it also performed for three concerts, the last at which all chorus class members were allowed to sing.

The Choraliers, performing for dinners and banquets as far as Lansing, Illinois, were given training in stage presentations and experience by singing by themselves.

"Read and dig, read and dig" are words constantly pounded into the heads of senior chorus members Brent Garrison, Dale Moses, and Mark Yavor as they attempt to learn their bass part.

Giving both the piano player and the students a short break, Mr. Lindquist entertains them by improvising a favorite choral selection.

Self-organized week-end camp supervised by leadership class

"One, two, three, four! Two, two, three, four!" Despite the usual strains of performing daily calisthenics, physical education students were still able to survive their year's course. Students who had already completed their required courses of physical education and advanced physical education were able to apply for membership in gymnastics, recreation, or leadership. Final selection for these courses was made by the instructors after evaluation of the student's ability, knowledge, leadership, and interest.

While the first two years of gym dealt with learning and developing basic skills in such activities as individual and team sports, tumbling, and recreational games, the latter three courses were designed for more advanced work as in leadership. During the first semester, the class learned techniques in teaching games at an elementary school. After organizing and planning a school-sponsored camp in the second semester, the class then participated in an actual week-end camp experience.

To help future drivers develop proper attitudes and proper driving skills, driver education was a part of nearly 225 students' schedules.

As one of the requirements for graduation, health and safety classes dealt with helping young people understand themselves physically, mentally, and emotionally.

The shaping of a table leg is the object of junior Vance Johnston's concentration as he operates the wood lathe in Mr. Dickey's advanced wood and cabinet class.

Industrial Arts adds new vocational print shop

Over $18,000 worth of power hydraulic printing machinery and equipment was purchased and delivered to PHS this year. This machinery will enable PHS to offer a new vocational print shop to students interested in printing as a possible future career.

By participating in the vocational program, students were able to delve more deeply into their particular area of interest while some pupils received on the job training. Vocational classes met for three hours of the day. Seven vocational courses were offered. These included diversified occupations, industrial cooperative training, machine shop, welding shop, building trades, auto mechanics, and auto body shop.

Students beginning in the general shop course learned the importance of introductory skills for later jobs and classes. More advanced courses gave students the chance to explore specific techniques ranging from woodworking to electricity.

Cutting a thread, a necessary skill used in operating a metal lathe, is displayed by junior Jim Gunning, vocational machine shop student.

Mastering drafting skills is essential to freshman Jeff Hatala as he applies these basic techniques to his job sheets.

A VW hood poses no problem to junior Randy Jaso as he operates a grinder in metal finishing while senior Al McKinney assists.

PHS students receive honors at ceremonies

"And now the only man in school with ten G-strings . . . Mr. Bondi."

With such humorous introductions, faculty members sought composure behind the podium during the annual Awards Night ceremonies, May 26 in the gym as they honored members of the student body. And the shock of those introductions was often greater than the surprise of the name of the recipients as thousands of dollars in scholarships and other honors were awarded to outstanding teens.

Trophies, plaques, and certificates were presented to outstanding speech, journalism, drama, business, and music students. Thirty-one scholarships were awarded to college-bound students.

Future teachers get experience through cadet training program

Struggling with the problems of a school teacher for two hours a day, the PHS cadet teachers took on the occupation of educators Monday through Thursday throughout the year.

Besides sponsoring the cadet teachers, the FTA conducted monthly meetings that provided information to underclassmen considering the teaching profession. Movies, guest speakers, and the annual talk by the cadet teachers gave the members a concept of real teaching situations.

Any interested FTA members were welcome to try their skill at writing by entering a contest and submitting a composition entitled "The Teacher I'm Going to Be," with the possibility of winning a $500 prize.

With the sale of 363 PHS pins the FTA scholarship fund was increased by $109. This scholarship was given out at the end of the year to two senior members who planned to become teachers.

FNC revamps to include all health careers

Attempting to encourage aspiring doctors, technicians, and other people considering medical professions other than nursing to join in the club's activities, the Future Nurses Club of America changed its name to the Health Careers Club.

Various guest speakers from different medical fields gave the club members an idea of what to expect from their career choices.

Chicago trips highlight past club activities

Trips to Chicago highlighted the activities sponsored by both Der Deutsche Verein and La Estudiantina.

The annual trip by Der Deutsche Verein included dinner at Sauer's restaurant followed by two German movies at the Davis Theater.

This was the first year that La Estudiantina went to Chicago, and their plans consisted of a Spanish meal at one of Chicago's restaurants and a tour of Old Town.

A football game between the two clubs took place on a Saturday afternoon early in the fall. Though the game was close, Spanish club finally won by only a two point margin, 8-6.

Christmas proved an important time for both groups as they decorated Christmas trees to increase the spirit around school.

Crook receives superior ratings in state contest

Taking top honors in the state machine shop contest for the Portage Vocational Club was senior Dave Crook.

Crook placed first in advanced precision measurement in advanced general related division, and in overall competition. The school placed second in the area of combined skills.

The big money making project for the Vocational Club was the annual Sadie Hawkins dance on April 17.

Sponsoring the Distributive Education Banquet in April, was the major activity of DECA this year. The club's activities were limited this year because it did not affiliate with the state chapter of the Distributive Education Club of America.

First combined Pep Club largest in PHS history

Joining together to make the largest Pep Club in Portage High School history, the Girl's Pep Club, consisting of 250 members united with the newly formed Boy's Pep Club of 200 members to originate the first combined Pep Club of PHS.

The Girl's Pep Club, under the supervision of Miss Kathleen Lightcap, completed various duties such as painting store windows in the Portage Mall for homecoming, constructing a new teepee each week for the team to break through, and making signs to display in the gym.

Boy's Pep Club, under the guidance of Mr. John DeCoster, worked with the Girl's Pep Club to encourage school spirit. The first year's officers were: Roger Owens, president; Robby Evans, vice-president; and Kirk Sarkisian, secretary-treasurer. Their main plans for the future are to try to expand the new club.

"Farkel Reunion" is art club's main money making maneuver

"The Farkel Family Reunion," the theme of the Brush and Palette Club annual dance, was the main money-raising project for the art club in 1970.

During the evening, posters of pop rock artists such as Three Dog Night, Mick Jagger, and Led Zeppelin were auctioned off to the highest bidders. All posters were made by art students of PHS.

Sponsored by Mr. Joseph Koss and Mr. Richard Shearer, the Brush and Palette members also sold holiday centerpieces at Christmas time to raise additional funds for the club. All proceeds from these activities went to the art department for use in buying new materials.

A first place winner in the state gymnastics meet (Judi Kirk) and a second place (by a loss of only one point) in the state basketball competition were only two of the accomplishments of the 1969-70 GAA.

Dues of $2 and funds from a sweat-shirt sale were the sources of money for the different activities of GAA. This money was used to defray the costs of transportation and awards, and to help pay expenses to the annual GAA camp.

The turn-about Mardi Gras dance on Mar. 21 was one of the major activities on the PHS calendar. The GAA took on full responsibility of the dance and decorated, hired the band, and served refreshments.

The medium for presenting awards was the mother-daughter banquet May 21. Various awards were presented to girls outstanding in many aspects of athletics.

Amidst the smoke and flames, both old and new GAA members cook hot dogs at the annual picnic at the beginning of the year.

Lettermen raise money through concession sales

Senior letterman George Nelson fills a bag of popcorn for a spectator who developed an appetite while watching the game.

To raise money for coming events, the Lettermen's Club sold refreshments in the concession stand during the sports seasons. While some lettermen were working in the concession stand, others were ushering the spectators during the basketball and football games.

Funds raised by the lettermen were used in buying new letters and trophies for such awards as "Most Valuable Player."

This year's officers included Robbie Evans, president; Bob Thomas, vice-president; Roger Owens, secretary; and Nick Steucker, treasurer. The club is under the direction of Mr. Floyd Johnson.

Basketball season proved a busy time for senior Bob Zatkoff and other lettermen since it was their duty to keep out interested spectators until half-time.

Taping commercials, dramatizations, and speeches was just one of the activities of the all-male video tape team. They also taped all the major athletic events here at PHS.

Keeping up with the demands for movie projectors from the different teachers, the Audio Visual Club spent most of its time transferring projectors from one room to another. The AV Club was also required to keep the movie projectors in working condition at all times.

To keep the language lab in top working condition, the help of students was necessary. These language lab assistants set up the tapes and helped the students familiarize themselves with the technicalities of the language lab.

In order to devote as much time as possible to scientific experimentation and study, the Science Club had regular meetings every Monday after school. The meeting gave the members an opportunity to work on their projects.

Gaye Dillon is speech contest award winner

Four Speech and Debate Club members entered the 24th Annual High School Speech Conference held at Ball State University on January 24. Senior Gaye Dillon received a first on her dramatic interpretation in the second round. Other entrants included original oratories by Sharon Haviza and Leo Lawrenson and a humorous interpretation recited by Clarence Lawson.

The video tape machine proved useful to the members in studying their own speeches, the Chesteron Highland Debate, and recent speeches by such people as Adam Clayton Powell.

The second year club consisting of 14 members collected toys, books, and clothing for the Thailand Orphanage as their service project.

Officers included seniors Dennis McFarlane, president; Mark Humbert, vice-president; and Juniors Bob Bowman, secretary; and Sam Maletta, treasurer. This year's club was under the direction of Mr. John Adamski.

SCS purchases new video tape; revises constitution for new year

Funds from previous projects were used by the Student Citizenship Society to purchase a tape for the video tape machine. With this tape the SCS was able to film city court and also the city council meetings.

The upcoming year also called for the revision of the constitution. A committee was appointed for this purpose under the direction of Mr. Ronald Buls and with a two thirds approval of the club was accepted.

SCS president Richard Harris points out some debatable facts of the revised constitution to Mr. Ronald Buls, club sponsor.

After careful consideration, senior Tom Potts makes his choice for representative at large in the spring primary election.

First semester Legend sales lay groundwork for record campaign

Work on the 1970 Legend began this summer when Carol Mahns, co-editor, Cindi Crestani, business manager, and Mike Hill, photographer, attended the two week workshop at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana.

New ideas for page makeup and pictures were just a few of the many things incorporated into the 1970 Legend.

Staff members spent a good part of their time after school drawing page lay-outs, cropping pictures, and writing headlines and copy to meet the four deadlines required to get the yearbook printed.

A price increase of fifty cents over last year's Legend helped pay for the eight extra pages added to this volume.

All standing records were broken this year with the sale of almost 1200 Legends during the first semester campaign.

Working after school to meet a deadline, Chris Chaddock, co-editor of the Legend, helps Gail Mahns figure out a headline.

Editor letters surpass 3-year combined total

Pow Wow "Letters to the Editor", this year, showed an increased interest of the student body in activities of PHS. During the first semester alone, there were more letters submitted than in the past three years combined.

During the entire year, the staff completed 18 regular issues and one special issue that came out for homecoming. To compile these issues, the staff met everyday last hour, but unfinished work had to be completed at after-school work nights.

The four-page issue included important front-page stories, entertaining features, club news, and up-to-date sports results.

Under the supervision of Mr. Robert Rhude, every deadline was successfully met and each issue came out on time. Cost of the Pow Wow came from advertising and the student activity fee enabling every student to receive all 19 issues.

Comparing past issues of the Pow Wow are second semester editor Laura Elliott, Mr. Robert Rhude, adviser, managing editor Andrea Mauser and first semester editor Earl Fannin.

Junior Russell Willis refers to past editorials in the morgue to find needed information for his next editorial for page two.

Co-sports editor, junior Art Logsdon, takes a second look at copy for one of the home basketball games to check for spelling errors before he types up his story for page four.

Collecting poems, themes, and other types of literary work for the high school magazine was the job of the Saga staffers under the direction of Mrs. Mary Dold.

English teachers submitted selections of many types of composition written by the students. After a sufficient amount of material was turned in, the staff read it over and made their selections.

News stories and features for the various area newspapers were written by News Bureau throughout the year. All nine members of the staff followed up on current events concerning PHS.

In addition to keeping the public informed about all the school happenings, the staff took the printed stories and placed them in the News Bureau scrapbook, and frequently on the bulletin board across from the bookstore.

Student and Guidance Councils begin new program aspects

The breakfast program was the newest innovation sponsored by the Student Council this year. For just 15 cents late risers could grab breakfast at school, but lack of participation caused the program to be dropped.

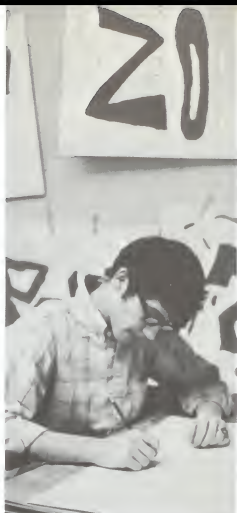

Traditionally sponsored by Student Council were all Homecoming activities. This included a parade, half-time activities, and the semi-formal dance, themed "Autumn Leaves."

The number of class representatives increase from five to seven allowing a wider range of students views.

Guidance Council this year took on its topics and report delivery from a new aspect. Uniform topics changed each month so everyone received their report on the same topic, on the same day.

Delivery in the past had been almost entirely left up to the guidance Council partners. Now on the day of the report, the partners took one of the empty seats and tried to create a more relaxed atmosphere, hoping to increase student participation.

Community projects new addition to Drama Club

Senior Diann Lindquist and sophomore Rose Smith make an adjustment to one of the stage sets for a Drama Club production.

Drama Club officers Debi Deyvak, Cindi Crestani, Barb Hora, and Diann Lindquist find time to "ham it up" for the camera.

Successfully completing three major drama productions was the main objective of Drama Club during the 1969-70 school year.

The three productions included the whimsical comedy, "Blithe Spirit", the Greek tragedies, "Oedipus Rex" and "Antigone", and "Once Upon A Mattress", the third musical Portage High School has performed.

In March, Drama Club sponsored the annual variety show, "You're Putting Us On". Acts varied from traditional folk Scottish bagpipes to modern day performances from the pop musical "Hair". There was one faculty participant, Mr. James Killion, who presented a phonetic punctuation.

Other activities that Drama Club participated in included trips to Valparaíso and Gary to see "Barefoot in the Park" and "Mame." The Community Project Committee organized visits to the old age home along with collecting money for the March of Dimes.

Thespians tour television studio, attend "Hair"

Attempting to capture the mouse, senior Diann Lindquist, is senior Gaye Dillon, who portrayed the cat in the Thespian Christmas skit.

Touring a TV studio in Chicago and observing how a news broadcast is put together was one of the four big activities of the Thespians this year.

A few of the Thespians also entertained at different grade schools during the Christmas season by putting on a Christmas play entitled, "The Mouse Who Didn't Believe in Santa."

Sponsoring a trip into Chicago to see the musical "Hair," was another of the activities for the students and the faculty that accompanied them.

Performing skits at the Old Folks home in Valparaiso also kept the Thespians busy during the year.

The Thespians ended the year with the annual Banquet at Obie's Restaurant in Griffith. At this time the awards for achievement during the year (such as best supporting actor and actress and best actor and actress) were given out by sponsors Mr. Dennis Norman and Mr. Neil Lane.

Named as "Ethyl Jones Outstanding Journalist", senior Dan Finucane receives a congratulatory handshake from Mr. Robert Rhude.

Quill and Scroll, the national honorary for high school journalists, inducted 18 new members during the 1969-70 school year. Eight senior members were inducted in December at the mid-year ceremony, while four seniors and six juniors were inducted at the annual spring banquet May 5.

Two new awards were presented this year at the banquet. Award for excellence in photography went to Mike Hill and the "Outstanding Cub Reporter" was Robin Nelson. "Ethyl Jones Outstanding Journalist" was senior Dan Finucane while Cindi Crestani was named "Most Valuable Staffer."

Other events of the evening included presentation of honor keys and the "Incredible Honors" which included the Compatibility Award and the Mr. Rhude Look Alike Contest.

Honor society compiles honor roll; organizes annual awards night

Compiling scores for honor roll and honorable mention was the major function of the National Honor Society.

After every six weeks period, students turned in their grades to be averaged by honor society members who later submitted the names for publication in area newspapers.

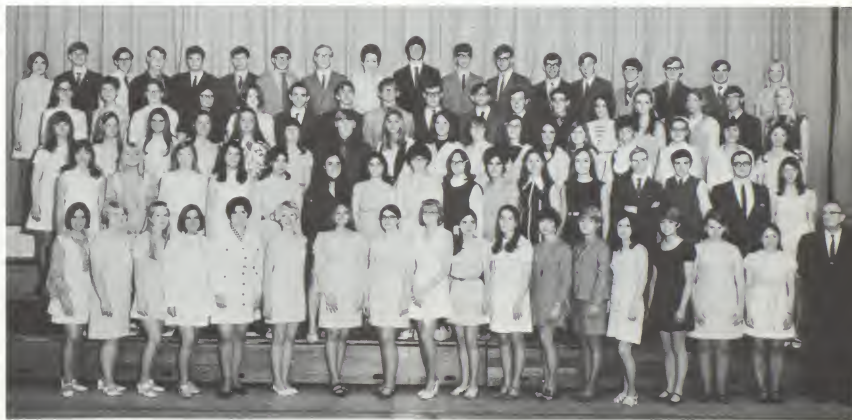

Awards night was organized by the honor society. Diann Lindquist and Randy Olson emceed the program designed to honor PHS students.

New honor society members were inducted, scholarships were given out, and award winning students were recognized.

A sock hop during basketball season provided the honor society with the necessary funds to finance awards night and other expenses accumulated during the year.

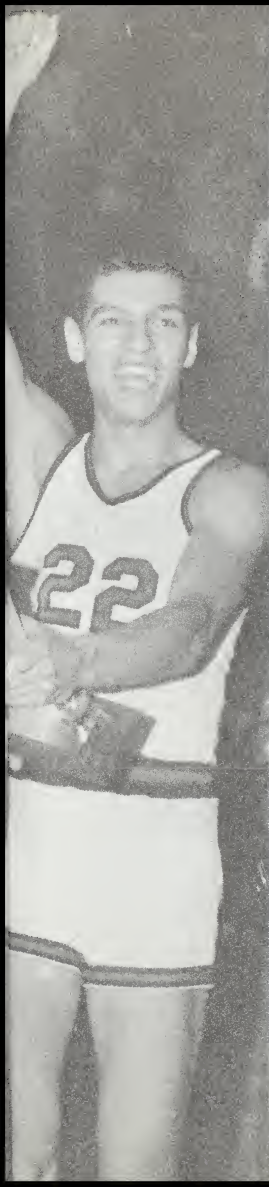

Besides being the co-emcee of the Awards Night program for honor society, senior Randy Olson receives the award for best actor presented by co-sponsor of Drama Club, Mr. Neil Lane.

The common bond of aching muscles and physical fatigue as a result of strenuous hours of practice developed not only attitudes of good sportsmanship among PHS athletes, but also created the strong and close ties of friendship between fellow players.

Both the serious locker room sessions with coaches and the rousing pep sessions with students further stimulated the Indians' evident desire and undeniable will to win.

Senior, freshman lead team in singles wins

The PHS tennis squad, in its second year of existence, finished the season with a 4-5 record on the varsity level while its JV counterpart finished with one win, one tie, and one loss.

Top singles winners were freshman Jerry Matthews, 2-0; senior Bob Zatkoff, 2-1; and junior Mike Tracht, 2-5. The leading doubles team was composed of juniors Ron Arvidson and Bob Porch who won six and lost four doubles matches. Two other combinations had winning records; juniors Tracht and Jim Combs, 2-0; and Tracht and junior Dennis Horner, 2-1. The racket wielders obtained 14 points in the sectionals, sparked by the doubles team of Combs and Tetrick who obtained six points in all. Tracht and Horner each received four points in their respective singles matches, but the PHS tennis team, leading the first day of the sectionals, took fifth after losing second round competition.

Combs and Tetrick beat the Porch-Arvidson combo on doubles to lead the team to a third place in the Duneland conference tourney and win a doubles title for themselves.

The JV's lost to LaPorte 6-3, but beat and tied Michigan City, 5-2, and 2-2.

Poise and determination are essential to junior Dennis Horner in executing his swing to maintain an advantage over his opponent.

Thomas brothers spark harriers to 14 wins and sectional sixth

With two All-Calumet Conference runners, a regional participant, and depth throughout the team, the PHS cross-country team accumulated 14 wins compared to only four losses.

Senior Bob Thomas was again the team's leading runner with five first place finishes and second place finishes in the only other two meets he ran this year. His brother, junior Tim Thomas shared a spot on the All-Conference squad with Bob, placing second in six meets, third in two and leading the team in Bob's absence.

Two other runners ranked high on the team during the season. Seniors Bill Connaway and Rick Tanner also ran near the lead in each meet, as did sophomores Doug Pauley, George Lihvarchik, and junior Dave Swanson.

Along with Bob's All-Conference honors and regional action, Bob was named as the team's Most Valuable Player at the fall sports award presentation.

The varsity harriers finished fifth of eleven teams in the Andean Invitationals and sixth in the sectionals, with Bob finishing third and Tim placing tenth.

The jayvee harriers won the Valpo jamboree, the Duneland Conference tourney, and one triangular meet.

Regional contestant, senior Bob Thomas works on building speed before beginning practice on his long distance running.

Seated, coach Michael Cavanaugh discusses the opponents with varsity harriers before the start of a triangular meet.

Reserves coast to 4-2 season with ground attack

Utilizing a potent rushing attack, the junior varsity football team posted a season record of 4 wins and 2 losses under new coach, Jim Gazdick. Freshman gridders, with a balanced attack, were 3-4 overall.

The top three reserve scorers were Ted Harper, Rick Sabo, and Kevin Hake, all three JV backs. These three, along with fullback Bill Milan also aided the team in gaining yardage besides scoring points.

Scoring 151 points, an average of 25 points per game, the junior varsity only gave up 62 tallies, or 10.6 points a game.

Coach Gazdick gave much of the credit to the offensive line for opening holes and letting the backs find running room.

While the jayvees won their last three games, the freshman team lost their last three contests to finish with a losing season.

Early in the season, the freshmen defeated Valparaiso Ben Franklin, 50-0, as the frosh top scorer Paul Burch made four of his six touchdowns.

Both Ken Clements and Bo England called signals for the frosh.

After being shaken up and leaving the game, jayvee fullback Ted Harper reassures coach Robert Kerns that he is ready to play.

Owens named to All-Conference, chosen as Mr. Football at PHS

With a rushing attack that accumulated over one thousand yards, and a defense led by senior linebacker Roger Owens, the Portage High varsity football team chalked up six wins against only three losses, their best season since 1962.

PHS did not lose any away games this year while all three losses were at Trumble field.

Two outstanding losses were against state-ranked Hobart and Valparaiso, each of whom shut Portage out. The third loss was to Chesterton which cost PHS the northern division title of the Calumet Conference. Chesterton was later defeated by Merrillville, the southern division champs who were beaten only by Portage in the Indians second home game.

Owens was named to the All-Calumet Conference team, and seniors Rob Evans, Jerry Hurst, Jerry Pettillon, and Dan Finucane all received Honorable Mentions. Owens also was awarded an Honorable Mention for the Associated Press All-State Team, and was chosen as PHS football's Most Valuable Player.

Owens led the Indians in interceptions and tackles, and was co-tackler of Calumet backs in two plays resulting in safeties.

Of the 87 points scored by the Indians, junior kicker Dan Riley led with 17, eight points after touchdowns and three field goals. Hurst, Evans, junior quarterback Allen England, and senior ends Chuck Mason and Pete Shaw each scored 12 points. Owens scored 10 points, one touchdown and two safeties.

The top three rushers for the season were Hurst with 496 yards, Crizer with 257, and Evans who gained 249 yards. Crizer saw action in only eight of the nine games, however, after suffering an injury against Valparaiso.

Crizer and Mason led in pass receptions with 10 and 7, respectively. Crizer gaining 122 yards to Mason's 155.

Quarterback England completed 31 passes in 98 attempts with 10 interceptions for 464 yards and a 31.6 per cent pass completion average.

Seniors Nelson, Petillon lead grapplers in wins

Disappointed by a 9-5 season and a fifth place in the Calumet Conference, the Portage varsity wrestlers placed third in both the Duneland Conference meet and the sectionals which were held here. Though no Portage grapplers were sectional champions, PHS also hosted the regional competition.

The top two wrestlers for the Indians were seniors Jerry Petillon, 12-1-1 as a heavyweight, and George Nelson, the 185-pounder who sported an 11-2-1 season record. Three other varsity wrestlers had ten wins and three losses: freshman Jerry Swindle (123), and juniors Dennis Hostettler (130) and Ron Cook (98).

The 1968-1969 wrestlers had a 13-1 season record and a second in the sectionals, as well as the Calumet Conference title.

Only three grapplers, Nelson, Petillon, and Mark Yavor will leave the team because of graduation, while ten lettermen will return next year.

Three jayvees were 6-0: Jim Hatala, Tony Vottero, and Jeff Scheeringa. Ed Keith was 7-0-3, and Joe Weise had the most wins. He was 8-1.

The reserve matmen finished the season with a 9-2 overall record.

Jayvee grapplers warm up together with jumping jacks, and then split up to go through individual preparation before a meet.

Successfully forcing his challenger to the mat, junior Ken Kendrick obtains two points for a take-down during one of his decision victories in the 145 pound weight class.

Scoring 300 points as a guard this season senior Dave Alvarado led the varsity basketball team to a 13-7 season with a 6-4 record in the Calumet Conference.

Alvarado was seventh in conference scoring with 167 points. Junior Chris Lajcin scored 128 points and finished nineteenth. Senior Pete Shaw, however, had the second best average with 13.7 points per game.

Junior Jim Combs led the team in rebounds with 96. Shaw and Lajcin were second and third respectively with 94 and 90.

This year, for the first time ever, Portage won a holiday tourney defeating Wawasee and Columbia City at the Columbia City tournament. Since their first tournament in this decade, in 1961, Portage has never won the final game of a holiday tourney.

Another feat, Portage entered the final game of the sectionals at Chesterton, (which PHS hasn't done in four years), and lost to Valparaiso by only six points. A double overtime win by one point over Morgan that afternoon may have slowed the Indians down in the evening game.

Alvarado, for the second year straight, was placed on the All-Calumet Conference basketball squad, this year on the second team, and was also named to the All-Sectional team at Chesterton along with juniors Jim Combs and Chris Lajcin.

This year marked the first varsity winning season since 1966.

Rising high into the air, senior Dave Alvarado virtually lays the ball into the hoop for two points against Morgan Township.

A Morgan player loses his balance while trying to get to the loose ball that senior Jim Cahillane retrieves in sectional action.

Jubilant over the Portage victory in the Holiday Tourney, Coach Morrie Goodnight makes the final cut of the net, as valuable to him as the trophy the Indians also received.

Before the Indians face Chesterton at a Portage home game, the starting line-ups of both teams are introduced. Here, senior Dave Alvarado "gives some skin" to other PHS starters.

JV's end even; freshmen have winning season

With Mark Cahillane leading the team in rebounds and total points, the reserve basketball team finished the 1969-70 season with an even 10-10 record.

Cahillane, a sophomore center, totaled 209 points in 20 games, averaging 10 points per game, and snatched 151 total rebounds. Second to Cahillane in scoring was Jon Tetric who tallied 158 points in 18 games for an 8.8 points per game average.

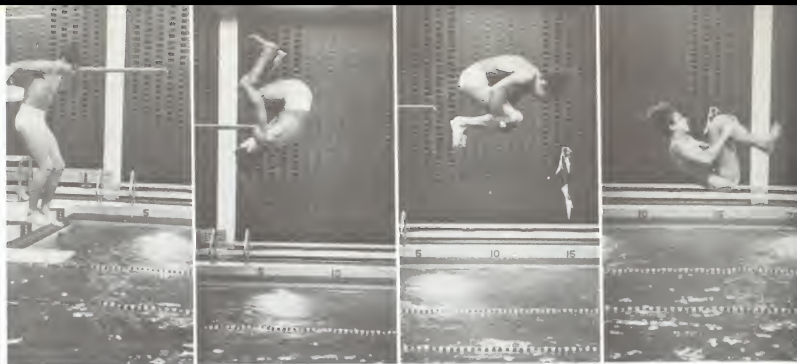

The only cager near Cahillane in rebounds was Bob Coleman whose 55 offensive rebounds fell four short of Cahillane's total, while his 18 defensive efforts missed the leader's total by 11.

Freshman cager Tony Greenway led his squad to an 11-4 mark, by scoring 188 points and successfully manning the boards 152 times.

The frosh took both the Valpo Franklin and Westchester tournaments.

The freshmen captured both the Valparaiso Franklin and Westchester tournament trophies also.

Commonly called intermission by the swimmers and spectators, diving is the longest event of the meet. Sophomore Tim Sarasin shows the skill and patience needed to become a diver. In addition to concentrating on his dives, he also has to watch out for stray swimmers.

Tankmen splash to 10-2 season; five records fall

Breaking five records and placing fifth in the LaPorte sectionals and first in the Wallace Relays, the PHS swimming team swam to a 10-2 season.

The squad of John Muntean, John Van Wormer, George Muller, and team co-captain Dean Hostettler frequently broke the 200 medley relay record during the season lowering the time to 1:57.2 in the Chesterton meet.

The 400 yard relay time was dropped to 3:50.9 by Tom Funkey, Scott Nelson, Dave Tarrant, and co-captain Jay Scovill.

Individual records broken this year were the 200 yard free, Funkey; 100 yard backstroke, Van Wormer; and 200 yard individual medley, Rob Bauman.

Funkey, a three-year letterman, was selected as Most Valuable Swimmer by the team. Other senior lettermen were Hostettler, Muller, Muntean, Scovill, Kurt Knutsen, Steve Lovell, and Toby Van Proyen.

The team next year will have 20 returning lettermen.

Taking a time out between work-outs, senior co-captain Dean Hostettler watches the progress of the team. Hostettler was a two-year letterman and a sprint specialist.

Batsmen take 3rd in sectionals; Yates wins Most Valuable title

With junior Chris Lajcin leading in batting and Dwane Yates as pitching leader, the varsity baseball team finished its season 8-11-1 overall with a third place finish in the sectionals.

Despite arm trouble, senior Dave Alvarado appeared in seven games, as Yates recorded four wins and three losses striking out 41 batters and walking only 13. Alvarado pitched the least of the top three pitchers, and had 41 strikeouts, but walked 21 men although he gave up only 22 hits.

Junior Dennis Horner led pitchers in strikeouts with 48, but faced nearly 100 more batters than Yates. Yates also held the best conference Earned Run Average on the team, while Alvarado had the best overall ERA.

Dwane was the Indians' third best hitter in the team's 11 conference contests with a .314 mark.

Junior Chris Lajcin led hitters in overall games with 21 hits in 58 trips to the plate. Tom Potts, senior, was second with 23 hits in 66 at bats, a .348 average.

Both Potts and Lajcin had seven runs batted in, while Yates had four. All three of the batting leaders had three RBI's each in conference games. Lajcin also led in doubles with four, and triples, with two.

As he steps onto home plate, junior Dennis Horner looks for the ball and watches other Portage runners as they round the bases.

Thomas, Winn break records in mile, pole vault

Sparked by the record breaking performances of seniors Bob Thomas and Tom Winn, the varsity track team finished a rainy track season with a 3-4-1 dual meet record, placed second in the divisional conference meet, received a fifth in the Calumet Conference meet, a fourth place award in the Duneland Conference meet, the Rensselaer Relays, and Chesterton Relays, and a sixth in the Highland Relays.

Thomas set a new record in the mile run, rounding the track four times in a time of 4:24.8. Tom Winn's old record in the pole vault of 12 feet was broken by himself and reset at 12 feet six inches.

Both Thomas and Winn placed in the sectional competition but only Bob emerged from the regionals and went on to the state meet. He placed fourth in the two-mile run at Indianapolis.

Most Valuable players on the track team were Thomas and runner-high jumper Vic Pantea, both of whom were on the distance medley team which placed third at the Hoosier Relays.

The freshman team finished the season with a 3-2 overall record and a fourth place in the Westchester Relays.

Three champs crowned at end of intramurals

Intramural sports this year included three sports, football, basketball, and softball, in the program.

Mr. Arol Amling, new sponsor of intramurals for 1969-70, scheduled both regular season games and tournament play.

At the end of the fall season, a football team composed of freshmen and sophomores had won the intramural football championship.

GAA gymnasts place second in state competition

All GAA teams, except field hockey with a 1-2 record, had winning seasons this year. The Gymnastics team won all regular meets and finished second in the state (by one tenth of a point). The telegraphic bowling team won first place for the second year straight, and the volleyball team finished with a 4-3 record.

The gymnasts won all four season meets, and chose senior Dea Porch as their most Valuable Player, and nearly won the state meet with junior Judy Kirk placing first in her event, the uneven parallel bars.

Telegraphic bowlers were led by senior Judy Dailey, their MVP, as they won their tourney with the best total in six nights of bowling. They defeated four other teams.

Debbie Skomp led the volleyball team to a 4-3 season and was chosen Most Valuable in both volleyball and field hockey.

GAA cagers retire with one loss; track team places three in state

Winning all regular season games, the GAA varsity basketball team, led by offensive performances of junior Jodi Muffoletto, and seniors Kathie Serynek and Cathy Aills, and the defensive performance of senior Diana Cook, went to an invitational tournament featuring the top-ranked team in the state, only to be defeated in the final game, 37-36.

Since the seniors began playing four years ago as the freshman team, they remained undefeated until their final contest with Warsaw, in the Concord Twp. Invitational Tourney.

Most Valuable Player for the GAA cagers was Diana Cook, who once scored nine points in a game as a stationary guard. Top scorer for the team, however, was Jodi Muffoletto.

In track, the GAA varsity squad won all regular meets, one dual meet, one triangular meet, and one pentangular meet, and came in first in the Hammond Gavit Invitational (five teams). They also took second out of 21 teams in the district meet and third of 28 teams in the regionals.

Only three girls placed in state track competition. Terri Rains finished first in the standing broad jump, junior Barb Kitchen placed sixth in the softball throw, and sophomore Adele Mauser won sixth in the shot put.

As her face shows both determination and strain, sophomore Adele Mauser practices putting the girls' eight pound shot.

Cheerleaders organize new victory yells

Shouting the newest "fight" appeal to the teams, the cheerleaders, with the assistance of the largest Pep Club in PHS history, led the school in arousing cheers to spur the Indians on to victory.

Sponsoring the first sock hop of the football season helped the cheerleaders raise money for their new uniforms.

Besides raising money for their own use, the cheerleaders helped with the March of Dimes fund-raising drive at one of the basketball games.

The summer and autumn clinics for varsity cheerleaders held in Syracuse, Indiana, provided the cheerleaders who attended with new approaches and techniques.

Combining various motions and yells, the varsity cheerleaders lead the Pep Club, students, and adult spectators in cheers.

Linksmen end season tied 8-8; Dunn is MVP

The golf team finished an even 8-8 over all team meet record and 5-5 in conference play under the direction of new coach Bruce Sheriff.

The linksmen placed 11 out of 38 teams competing in the Lake Central Invitational.

Four lettermen will be returning next year. They are junior Mac Guffin, sophomore Jon Dunn (also voted Most Valuable Player), sophomore Marshall Gerometta, and freshman Jim Smith.

Selected as Most Valuable Player by his teammates, sophomore Jon Dunn demonstrates the putting form that won him the honor.

In spite of the additional work caused by a decrease in the teaching staff and an increase in student enrollment, PHS faculty members participated in many extra-curricular activities outside of school.

Music, reading, and sports occupied the spare time of many teachers while the special interests of others ranged from collecting bottles to genealogy.

During the summer vacation several faculty members enjoyed traveling to various parts of the United States, Canada, and Europe.

Top honors for Class of 1970 accepted by Leslie, David Distinguished students, after four years of hard work, were recognized at the annual awards night ceremonies on May 26.

Leslie Clough, ranking first in a class of 374 seniors, maintained a 3.94 grade point average after seven semesters. Awarded a $1,000 scholarship, Leslie plans to major in music.

Salutatorian, David Glova, finished with a 3.92 average. Dave plans to major in electrical engineering.

The title of DAR Good Citizen was presented to Diann Lindquist. Chosen by the senior class, Diann qualified on the basis of her service, leadership, dependability, and patriotism.

DAR (Daughters of the American Revolution) Good Citizen Award recipient, Diann Lindquist, discusses her newly acquired position with her bird, the American eagle.

Addressing the graduation audience on the controversial subject of America's ills, Leslie Clough presents her valedictory speech.

Presented with a trophy symbolizing his achievement, David Glova is honored for being salutatorian of the 1970 class.

Responsibility,

1970 marked the beginning of a new decade in history—it also marked the end of high school for 390 seniors. For the Class of '70, this final year was packed with numerous activities.

Contributing to the fervor of homecoming, seniors took top honors for their show of team support during Spirit Week. The senior float, "We're Expectin' a Victory", captured a first in the homecoming parade. Annually sponsored by senior classes, the Christmas dance, which was changed to informal attire, was called "A Crystallyn Experience." For the first time, the class party, "Let It Be", was celebrated in senior hall.

Besides being faced with many new responsibilities and opportunities, seniors also found it necessary to make important decisions about the future. As the many problems of adulthood and independence loomed closer, it became easy to see why memories of high school are cherished.

Originality and good construction rewarded seniors with top honors for the best float entered in the homecoming parade. The stork consisted of 15,000 black, white, and pink flowers.

The Aquarius age launches '70 prom basis

Unlike the youth in many other American high schools, the juniors of PHS steered their abundant energy into productive and totally successful channels. Exuberant participation in Spirit Week, a profitable candy sale, and an exquisitely bizarre prom, although traditionally in the extra-curricular forefront, were paralleled this year as never before by personal achievements in many diversified areas. In all drama productions, sports, both inter- and intramural, and others of the more academically oriented organizations, members of the Class of '71 played integral parts.

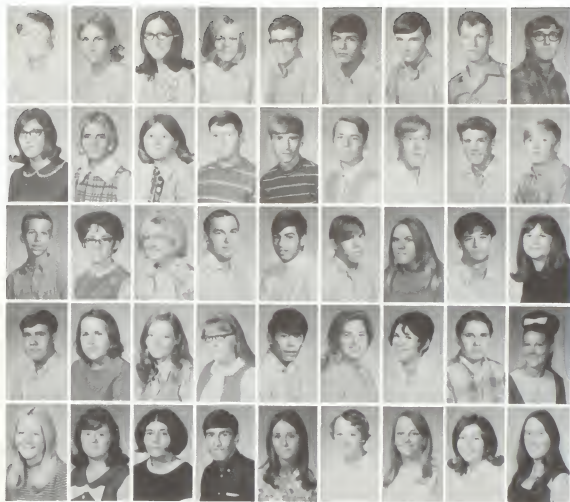

Class leadership was pulled straight from varsity athletic teams this year. President Frank Hinkle, pictured above, served with Ken Hefner, vice president, and Tim Thomas, secretary-treasurer.

Class of '72 shows school spirit, buys class rings

After having survived their freshman year, the sophomores of 1972 returned to face another challenging year of high school.

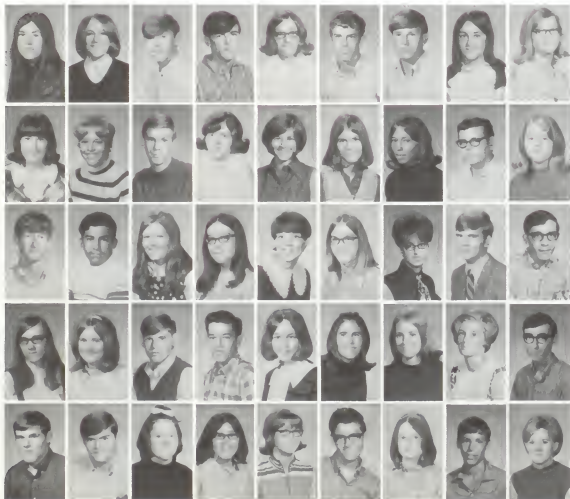

"Scarborough Fair" provided the sophomores with the theme to their class party. The "Backstreet Union", a band composed of all sophomores was the featured entertainment.

Placing third in the half-time ceremonies during the homecoming game against Chesterton, the sophomore class float "Grill Cheese" was the combined effort of the class.

Class rings ordered during March and accompanied by a down payment of $10 were received in May.

The year ended with all of the sophomores anticipating the opening of school next year when they would assume the roles of upperclassmen.

Incoming class is challenged by PHS halls

Freshmen became accustomed to high school life by overcoming the confusion and the new problems they confronted. Orientation acquainted freshmen with classes, events, and extra-curricular activities of PHS.

By participating in Spirit Week festivities, building a bonfire for the homecoming game, and electing officers to represent their class, freshmen became active in the student body.

The highlight of the year was the freshmen class party in the spring featuring the Sergeant Buffalo band.

Freshmen "stampeded" to their first class party where they danced to music provided by the Sergeant Buffalo band.

Deserted of any signs of life now that the school year has ended, the courtyard is no longer used as a shortcut to classrooms.

The 70's.
 A youth oriented decade.
 Young ideas in fashion, films,
 books, and music.
 Different attitudes toward hair, drugs, sex, and war.
 Words, no longer enough.
 Protest,
 violence,
 taking their place.
 Peace?
 Times of change and progress are never tranquil.
 Yet out of troubled times better worlds have emerged.
 Let hope guide us as we cross the threshold into a new decade

Searching for success in our youth

The last day of school, Tuesday June 2, 1970. PHS classrooms became silent and empty as the students departed for summer vacation.

Piled together in one great heap, the articles that were used in compiling the LEGEND lie dormant for the first time in nine months.

As the school year comes to a close we would like to thank our dedicated staff and understanding adviser for all the work and hours they spent in helping complete our
